Excerpt of pertinent information :

The General (CHIRNOAGA) informed the group of the events in Germany, particularly with reference to the Sigmaringen meeting, and told them that Prince NICOLAS wished to see them. ^{Dis-}agreement followed among the members of the group). . . Source [] attributes the reason for the disagreement to the fact that all the officers belong to some political party and fear that Prince NICOLAS will act with the support of the Iron Guard. It is to be recalled that about two months ago Gen. RADESCU reportedly gave Gen. CHIRNOAGA the assignment of organizing an army in Germany and Austria (See Para. 5, WFF-4089) and Col. IVANOVICI a similar assignment for France and other countries. Gen. CHIRNOAGA remained two months in Germany, where he allegedly has succeeded in organizing a potential army. In the meantime, the Iron Guard has expressed itself against Gen. RADESCU. On the other hand, the visit of Prince NICOLAS in Germany seems to imply that the Prince desires the Iron Guard and Gen. CHIRNOAGA to take the side of the King. In the opinion of Col. IVANOVIC , the officers are, therefore, afraid that the army organized by Gen. CHIRNOAGA will not be at the disposal of Gen. RADESCU, but directly under the King's orders. Others, including members of the National Peasant Party, seem to fear that the Iron Guard, having a regular army at the King's disposal, would become too important.

This is all the pertinent information on subject in this document.
